

Central Technical Department Research Lab built in 1939. Previous to this building the department had been in the Bag Factory Warehouse with the Camas Technical department. The staff numbered approximately 12 then. W. R. Barber was Technical Director. The building was located just east of the Bag Factory and has been partially removed to make room for bleach plant expansion. Just the west end remains which serves as housing for the Camas Mill instrument department. This view is looking northwest toward the highway with the Bag Factory visible on the left.
